

Firemen And A. R. P Handle Dummy Fire Beyond Town Limits

Take Hose Fifth of Mile Beyond Newmarket Town Limits In Evening A. R. P. Demonstration

Fire protection for Newmarket's northwest suburb was the experimental subject of an A. R. P. "field" meeting on Tuesday evening.

Not knowing that his house was on fire for the purposes of the evening's drill, James Lee was a little surprised when the town firemen, under the command of Fire Chief W. W. Osborne, ran a hose line from a hydrant at Niagara and Huron Sts. within the town limits, over a thousand feet to the hilltop corner of Penn and Vincent Sts. and doused the Lee house with a powerful stream of water.

The East Gwillimbury township residents were both surprised and pleased to find that the town could give them good fire protection at such a distance from the nearest town hydrant. Reeve Stanley Osborne of East Gwillimbury was present and said that it was worth a lot to the township residents.

H. E. Lambert, chief of the A. R. P. organization, had a good turnout of members. The A. R. P. organization threw a relay of men from the hilltop to the hydrant to convey messages from the scene of operations to the source of supply.

Chief Osborne had his men put a Y attachment on the hose and he still had a good stream from both nozzles. The firemen put the fire truck pump to work down at the hydrant and raised the pressure at the hydrant from 40 pounds pressure to 150 to 175 pounds. With the pump working, the hilltop hose 1,000 feet away threw a stream 50 feet in the air and 40 feet when the two nozzles were opened.

Due to a break at Water St. the water was reaching the "fire" by the roundabout Prospect and Huron Sts. routes. The booster pump at the waterworks was not in operation.

The firemen were able to reach the Lee house with the two streams of water without extending themselves, for the hose line was far from taut and another 200 feet of new hose was not brought into use at all.

Councillor D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee of the town, Councillor Frank Bowser, who is also a fireman, and Joseph Brammar and John Gibson, first and second engineers of the fire brigade, were among the large turnout of firemen and A. R. P. workers who put on the demonstration.

Employer Lends Men To Farms, Makes Up Wages

EMPLOYER GOES OUT HIM- SELF TO HELP FARMERS IN EVENING

Where there's a will there's a way. Those who want to help, can help. That has been illustrated by a busy Newmarket employer who, in spite of enough work to keep his men busy, has let them help district farmers with their haying.

He has done more than let them help. He has paid them their usual wages and accepted from the farmers the lower rate which they felt they could afford to pay. He has absorbed the difference himself, a loss of a dollar or a dollar and a half a day per man.

This employer has had as many as four men, or half of his staff, out helping in an afternoon, and has been out with his men himself of an evening. He has lots of work of his own to do, but he appreciates the difficulties faced by farmers and he appreciates the importance of the job which the farmer is doing towards the winning of the war.

W. M. Cockburn, York county agricultural representative, had a few words to say this week about the possibility of a group of neighbors getting into a car and going out and enjoying an evening's work on a nearby farm.

"The gang can go out and have some fun out at the same time," said Mr. Cockburn. "They can be in the field by 7 o'clock and do a good evening's work."

"A word of thanks is due to the tannery boys who spent their week's holidays working on a farm," Mr. Cockburn added. "There was a fair number of them who went out and worked on farms."

URGES TOXOIDING ERE SCHOOL OPENING TIME

Dr. J. H. Wesley, M.O.H. for Newmarket, this week urged toxoiding as a preparation for school.

"Of all the toxoid disease preventatives for children, the most important is the one for diphtheria, and here are the reasons: (1) All babies from six to 12 months of age are susceptible to the disease. (2) The death rate for this disease is highest among those who are in their early years of life. (3) Half of all the deaths from diphtheria occur among children of pre-school age. (4) The disease is more likely overlooked in children. (5) No disease among children has a higher death rate. (6) While we have been comparatively free from this disease for the last 20 years, it has been active in different parts of the globe and there has lately been rather a serious epidemic in Toronto and adjacent municipalities. (7) All babies at six months of age should be toxoided. This consists of three doses at three week intervals. It is harmless, and not very painful. This will last until the time of commencing school, when the youngsters should have another small dose just to make sure of the protective qualities of the former three doses. (8) As there have been two diphtheria toxoid clinics during the last year, it is not very likely there will be another until after the present summer holidays. So if you have children who have not been toxoided, kindly take them to your family physician and have them done before going back to school. (9) Have them done for diphtheria first, then for whooping-cough, then for scarlet fever. (10) The large number of children who were toxoided a year ago for scarlet fever are standing up well against the presence of a few cases of the disease which have been in town for some time. So far we have yet to hear of any toxoided children contracting scarlet fever. Under present conditions there should be another scarlet fever toxoid clinic this fall, as soon as school opens."

TRY EXPERIMENT

Councillor Frank Bowser, chairman of the town road and bridge committee, is not yet sure whether an experiment in pavement patching on Park Ave. between Main and Church Sts. is a success.

Paving contractors spread hot tar on the pavement and then spread on the surface sand heated to a high temperature. The purpose was to fill in holes. The sand which was not absorbed will be swept off the street shortly.

NEWS "BREAK" OCCURS

Harold Bray, youthful Ravenshoe correspondent of The Era and Express, writes: "Sorry I have not been writing Ravenshoe items this last week, having had a broken collarbone."

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Jack Peppiatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Peppiatt, Newmarket, underwent an emergency ruptured appendix operation recently at Port Credit. He was working at crystal beach. TWO MEN ENGAGED BY PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

Two men teachers were engaged by the Newmarket public school board at a meeting last week. There were 70 applications for the positions vacant. Chairman W. H. Exes presided.

Fred S. Hall, who taught at Beeton last year, will be the principal of the Stuart Scott school, succeeding J. D. Purdy.

Ralph C. Rumball, Toronto, who taught at Hillside last year, will teach at the King George school in succession to J. W. Darling.

Miss Florence E. Staunton, art teacher, has been granted leave of absence for the duration of the war to work in war industry, and an effort is being made to secure another teacher qualified to teach art.

There was slight upward revision of salaries for the coming year. Only essential repairs to the buildings are to be done this summer. The ceilings in some of the classrooms at the King George school are being re-decorated to assure better light reflection.

War Puts Newmarket On Wheels, Business Leads

MAIN ST.'S BICYCLES V. WITH CARS IN POPULARITY

The bicycle is returning to its former popularity in Newmarket. The ever-present messengers' bicycles are being supplemented by adults' bicycles.

Some who formerly walked to work as well as some who formerly drove cars to work are now among the cyclists. Indicative of the trend is the popularity of the bicycle among Main St. business men.

Among Main St. business men to be seen on bicycles are F. H. Hewson, bank manager, J. L. Spillite, town councillor, and merchant, L. P. Cane, postmaster, Chester Best, druggist, and H. E. Gilroy, merchant. No doubt there are, or soon will be, others.

VIC PATCHES TANKS, JACK PATCHES SOLDIERS, TWO NEWMARKET BOYS MEET IN HOSPITAL

"I received a box of tinned goods from you and I can assure you they were very welcome," writes Bandsman G. T. Blencowe, thanking the Newmarket Veterans' Association for their thoughtfulness. "I would have received it sooner," he wrote, "if we had not been taken from the regiment to help build a division band. Of course, our mail was sent to the regiment first and had to be readdressed. That made it all the more welcome though."

"I have met some of the fellows from the 5th Armored division who come from Newmarket. There seem to be quite a few here now from the old town. I receive the town paper quite regularly and it helps us follow the happenings in town."

Cpl. A. Elphinstone also writes to thank the Veterans' Association for a parcel of canned goods. "The contents were in perfect condition," Cpl. Elphinstone wrote, "and can assure you were very much appreciated. I will not have to go to the canteen for a lunch now. Of course we cannot get canned goods without coupons. The only coupons the soldier gets are for soap. I am getting along fine, was away on a course for a month on gunnery, then I had a two-week instructor's course, so now I will have to get to work."

IT TOTALS UP TO PLENTY AS CAMP SHADED

EVEN BROTHER OF PENE- TANG PHIL DOESN'T DOWN DAVIS

IT IS ARMY "WEAK"

Home... runs... triples... doubles... singles, everything that makes up a ball game, bounced off the Davis Leather and military camp bats at Monday night's hardball game at the Stuart Scott field. When the final score was tabulated, the Davis team was ahead 14-13.

The busiest man at the ball park was the official scorer, who tried his damndest to get all the plays down on the score sheet. Things were happening so fast, though, that it was practically impossible to score all the plays accurately.

This was the first defeat for the camp this season. Both teams are now tied on the season's play. Each has won a game and each has played one tie.

For the first five innings of the game the tannery boys took a commanding lead. At one stage of the game they led 14-1. But the camp gradually pecked away at the offering of two Davis pitchers and in the fifth they scored six times. Again, in the sixth, they sent four men across the plate.

Their 13th run was scored in the seventh when the ball was driven over the first baseman's head and nobody on the Davis team could find the ball in the semi-darkness. Meanwhile Wyzinski, the batter, rounded the bases.

Both starting pitchers failed to go the route. Gill for the Camp was lifted in the third and Newbold, a left-hander, came in, Gould, the Davis pitcher, retired in the fifth and Bob Peters took over.

The left fielder who played for the Camp for the first three innings was a brother of Phil Marchildon of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Bill Pipher Gives Life

Word came on Friday that Sgt.-Pilot William ("Bill") Pipher, reported missing following a bombing raid over Germany on March 25, gave his life for the cause of freedom. He apparently died when his plane was brought down over Germany.

Only son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pipher of Newmarket, he was 25 years old and had been in the R.C.A.F. since September, 1940. He gained his wings just a year ago this month.

An athlete and a musician, "Bill" Pipher was a young man of attractive personality, light-hearted and cheerful, with a love for adventure. He was born in Newmarket and attended Newmarket schools.

On his way to Britain he spent a short time in Iceland, and subsequently was engaged in service flights over the continent for a period of five months.

SEARCH FOR OIL IN DISTRICT IS PLANNED

Well-known Holland Landing man, S. E. Goodwin has leased 1,834 acres at a nominal rental to oil prospectors, who are taking leases on land north of the Queensville sideroad to the lake and easterly to the Queensville flats.

In the event of an oil strike the lessors get one-eighth of the oil production.

Mr. Goodwin, whose lease is with Malcolm Stobie & Co., Toronto, thinks that the operations here are part of a dominion-wide search for new oil supplies.

Although there has frequently been talk of oil in this district, it is said by geologists that oil has never been found in Ontario on the east side of the Hamilton escarpment.

RUNAWAY TRUCK KILLS CITY MAN ON HOLIDAYS

David Gallagher, 49, Toronto, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a runaway truck while seated at the roadside at Keswick. Michael F. Nolan of Toronto, who was in charge of the truck, was arrested and charged with criminal negligence.

Mr. Gallagher was a munitions worker in a war plant in Toronto and was spending a holiday with his wife and two children at his brother-in-law's cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher were sitting on the cement curb in front of Wm. Vail's store in Keswick. The large transport truck was parked in front of the post office, upgrade from where the couple were sitting.

While the driver of the truck was in the post office, the truck got into motion. The driver saw it and reacted after it but was not in time to stop the truck on the grade. When it had gone about 50 feet it jumped the curb and crashed into the front of the store. Mr. Gallagher had no chance to escape and was pinned against the wall, but Mrs. Gallagher was sitting in such a position that she was able to slide out of the way.

Constable Carl Morton of Roche's Point and County Constable Wm. Hill of Sutton West investigated. Coroner Dr. O. M. Beattie, Sutton, was called.

Two daughters, June, 15, and Agnes, 12, were at the cottage. A son, Glen, 17, had remained at work in Toronto.

Striking Swiftly At Farm, Fire Wipes Out Three Barns

Fire Spreads Rapidly As Farmer Races To Release Animals, Five-Year-Old Son Is First To See Fire

A fire that seemed to telegraph itself from building to building so quickly that it was difficult to know where it began destroyed three barns, a milk-house, a silo and a large pig-pen at the farm of Evan C. Murrell on the southeast corner of the second and the Sharon side-road late Monday afternoon.

The buildings, which, it was said, could not be replaced for $10,000, were only 40 percent covered by insurance. In addition, a wagon loaded with hay, all the harness, a new $365 milking-machine and 33 loads of hay, 5 to 60 hens and a great deal of miscellaneous equipment were lost.

The fire occurred about five minutes to five. James Foster, contractor, his helper and Mr. Murrell were in the milk-house and were starting to put cement around the forms for a vat for a new six-can milk cooler.

Clifford, Mr. Murrell's five-year-old son, was at the door of the milk-house and called out when he saw the fire.

"All the barns seemed to go at once," said Mr. Murrell. "The fire started in the cow-barn or the pig-pen off the cow-barn."

While Mr. Foster moved his truck and cement-mixer, Mr. Murrell ran into the barns to let the stock out. He rescued two calves, 25 pigs, two horses, a pony and a bull.

"I just got the horses out in time," he said. "I didn't even get the halters on the horses. The barns seemed to go all at once."

Mrs. Murrell phoned for the Newmarket fire brigade as protection for the house. The fire truck arrived promptly but it was too late to save the barns. There was not sufficient water for the fire-truck, and it would have been impossible to save the barns even with unlimited water. The roofs were falling in within half an hour of the start of the fire.

There was a strong wind, which was fortunately blowing away from the house. As a result, the firemen did not have to act.

In spite of his heavy loss, Mr. Murrell was ready to look at the things he had to be thankful for. It was fortunate, he said, that the fire occurred when it did, for in another half hour there would have been 20 cows in the barn for milking. Mr. Murrell has 40 head of cattle.

With crops in the field which should be in soon, Mr. Murrell began immediately on plans for a new barn.

Camp Champs At Bit To Do Bit To Champ Chats

MILITARY CHAMPIONS COME TO NEWMARKET FOR RETURN GAME

Champion Chatham's are coming to town. Champing Newmarket are waiting for them.

On Friday No. 23 B.T.C. will take on Chatham B.T.C. in softball. This game shapes up to be one of the finest played around here in a long time.

In the recent tournament at Ottawa between Military Districts 1, 2, and 3, Chatham squeezed out the Newmarket team by a score of 6-3, and then went on to win the championship. So softball at its finest will be on display here on Friday.

The funeral service on Tuesday at the chapel of Roadhouse and Rose was conducted by Rev. Arthur Greer. Interment was in Newmarket cemetery.

The pallbearers were Lorne Evans, Gormley, Garnet Evans, Gormley, Sgt. Jack Evans, Newmarket training centre, John Evans, Mount Albert, William Wilson, Toronto, and Mervin Dankert, Hanover.

Washington Priorities Tough On Newmarket

For want of a nail a kingdom was lost!

For want of necessary parts to repair the Strigley St. well pump, out of commission since last winter, it is impossible to shut down the new Cotter St. well long enough to complete work on it, and it is still necessary to pump water from the old wells and use the waterworks reservoirs which were under such heavy fire about a year ago.

The repairs from the Strigley St. well are believed to be on their way now. They come from the United States, and come only with permission from Washington.

When the Strigley St. well is repaired it will operate at night instead of the pump at the waterworks, and it will also be used while the new Cotter St. well is shut down to put in an overflow and automatic controls so that the latter well can be operated at night.

At the present time the Cotter St. well has to be operated manually, and to avoid employing an extra man the waterworks pump is used at night instead.

The splasher at the Cotter St. well is now operating and is 100 percent effective in removing air from the water, according to Angus Morrison, water and light superintendent.

"More than 300 tons of sugar are wasted every year in the bottom of tea-cups," says a statistician. This announcement is expected to cause a great stir in Aberdeen.

NEWS GATHERING HELP

Two anonymous communications reached The Era and Express last week. One was a number of news items from Keswick. This newspaper appreciates the help of the public in gathering news, but it can't publish material without knowing from whom it has come. The newspaper must be reasonably sure that the news is authentic, and it can't take a chance on unsigned news. The writer's name will not be published, but it should be included on the copy.

TIME TO DECIDE

School holidays are short. Just two fleeting months, say those most concerned. Schools will be opening in Newmarket again before long. It is therefore time that a definite decision be made on the public health and school nurse question. A special joint meeting of the town council and the board of health could make a decision as to whether or not the town is to engage a nurse. If the decision is that the town is to engage a nurse, then the board of health will have little enough time to do so between now and school opening.

SINCERITY IN ADVERTISING

The orgy of liquor advertising which marked "Army Week" did not contribute to the war effort in any sound way. The money was merely diverted, in contravention of Ontario liquor legislation or regulations against advertising, from government income and surplus profit taxes into newspaper and typographic and pseudo-patriotic sentiments. People who push liquor sales either in time of peace or in time of war are not serving their country well, and when such people advise the public concerning the war effort they bring bona fide patriotic advertising into discredit.

DIVIDENDS FROM LEISURE

The interesting article in last week's Era and Express about Gordon Graydon, M. P., who is writing the weekly letters on parliamentary happenings and sayings, was taken from "Canadian Business" and was written by Austin Cross. The latter's name was inadvertently omitted.

Austin Cross was a fellow reporter on the Montreal Daily Star when the writer of these editorial columns worked with that newspaper some 12 or 13 years ago. He became an Ottawa correspondent for the Star and we believe he still serves in that capacity.

Very successful as an interviewer, Austin Cross had a formula. He studied geography and railway timetables. His holidays he spent in travel. He knew where cities and towns were. When he read something about Kalamazoo, Mich., he was able to tie the information to the city mentally, and when a hotel arrival signed Kalamazoo, Mich., after his name, Austin Cross already had an introduction ready.

He learned the newspaper trade in Ottawa,

Hamilton and Toronto. Now, largely as a result of the way he spends his spare time and holidays, his articles are frequently to be seen in Canadian magazines.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

(Hugh Templin in Fergus News-Record)

What is sent to Canadian soldiers in Britain is largely a matter of individual preference. The weight allowance is liberal and there are few restrictions. An officer at Canadian Army Headquarters in London suggests butter, sugar, marmalade, fruit juice (all in cans); razor blades, garters and braces. Another suggests candy, particularly chocolate. I asked many soldiers what they would like and got few other suggestions. They seemed to be well supplied with cigarettes, though there were many complaints about cigarettes going astray. I imagine that it is not so much what is in parcels for soldiers that counts, so much as the fact that they are sent regularly. They like to know that the people back home have not forgotten them.

Parcels for civilians in Britain must be chosen carefully. The weight limit is five pounds, including the wrapping and package. There are some restrictions about the number of packages which may be sent and the contents. If the parcel does not comply with the restrictions, it will not be delivered. The person to whom it is consigned will be notified, but the contents will be turned over to some organization. That is worse than not sending a parcel at all.

Civilians in Britain appreciate the parcels sent them even more than the boys in the armed services. They are more in need of the extra food. A pound of butter received from Canada, for instance, doubles the ration for one person for two months. There is a definite rule that no person in Britain may write to ask that food be sent, but you can be sure it will be welcomed.

I asked many civilians what they would like most, if parcels were sent them from Canada. Invariably butter headed the list. It can be bought in cans. I heard of one old lady who received a two-pound tin of butter from Canada. She called the neighbors in to see it. The local paper heard the story and printed it. Two months later, she still had her butter unopened, a treasure beyond price.

Not more than two pounds of any one substance may be sent in a five-pound parcel. Do not send clothing. The person who receives it will be forced to give up clothing coupons, and possibly have to pay duty as well. Don't send cigarettes to civilians either, since the duty is high. Tea is not so scarce as generally supposed.

Foods generally mentioned, besides butter, were: canned meats, particularly ham products, fruit concentrates in tins, cheese, peanut butter, vitamin B1 tablets.

If you are sending to a lady, put in a few hairpins, bobby pins or safety pins. They are unbelievably scarce in Britain. And it is said that younger ladies might like a lipstick.

ECHOES FROM THE SANCTUARY

(This column is dedicated to the task of bringing a little of the church to those who are shut-in. Its main content will be the pith or kernel of one or other of the sermons given on the previous Sunday).

By REV. ARTHUR GREER

Our evening service on the Sunday of which this is an echo, was a memorial service for one of our boys, Sgt. Observer George Germain, who gave his life in combat with the enemy. That service has already been recorded in this newspaper, so we will give you the gist of our Sunday morning message, which was preached to the combined congregations of Trinity United church and the Congregational-Christian church.

The message was based on a question, "IS THE CHURCH JUSTIFIED?" The minister elected to speak on this question because, even in this town of ours, he has heard the question asked, and in the current literature of the day, he has noticed where people have tried to establish that the church is not a sufficient power for good in the world to justify its upkeep. Sectaries and infidels have pointed to the sombre fact that the youth of this generation is scarcely touched by the church or that churches were just the hobbies of certain pious individuals, and therefore, in time of necessary emergency should be scrapped. Such ranters, of course, are but the emissaries of the devil, and are propagating his poisonous doctrines.

However, we think it wise to answer them, so that those whose faith is fixed in God and to whom the churches are sacred, consecrated sanctuaries for divine worship, will have somewhere to turn when these demoniacal ranters, on what grounds, then, is the organized church justified?

1. THE CHURCH INTERPRETS LIFE. Do you understand life, my friend? If you do, I'll guarantee that your interpretation came directly or indirectly from the church, because the world is utterly unable to interpret life.

The world beckons men to social life. It offers such satisfaction as promotion at the office or factory, the expansion of a man's business or the enlargement of his professional practice. Yet when these heights are achieved they are little enough satisfaction. In fact, they are usually disappointments for advancement brings with it worry and strain, and always the desire to advance still further.

This is illustrated by the merchant who sold his little store and took over a large one. He said to me, "I was happy back in the little store. I knew all my regular customers, and knew their families and needs and needs and needs. I had time then to talk with my customers, and knew their families and friends. But now I have scarcely time to look at them, and they are no longer my intimate friends. Often I wish I were back in the little store, but I have started this enterprise now and I must go through with it."

But the CHURCH interprets life in this way. It tells a man to look for that promotion or enlargement by all means, so long as it will accomplish some good; if it will help him to be a friend to the friendless, and to benefit the institutions that are established for the good of mankind. But it cautions a man not to make these things a place of preparation where we must prepare to meet our God. Such preparation rests on our treatment of His Son, and those who "enter into His rest" will do so because they believe on Him.

2. THE CHURCH GIVES LEADERSHIP. In Germany, between the years 1918-1933, we had the spectacle of a nation without leadership. So acute did this lack become that the people were ready to follow any man who would give them a definite lead, and they fell in behind the beast of Berlin.

Thus is the human heart constructed: it demands and requires leadership, or it will grope along in the darkness. That is precisely what men are doing everywhere—walking along in the darkness of uncertainty. To such the church sends a reassuring voice which says "He that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

3. THE CHURCH OFFERS AN INSURANCE POLICY FOR THE FUTURE. The church has been made the brokerage house for the most important insurance ever issued—the insurance of ETERNAL LIFE. A little lassie of but seven years climbed upon the knee of her adoring daddy.

"What are you doing, daddy?" "Oh, I'm just looking over my insurance policies."

"Well, what are insurance policies, daddy?"

"Daddy had one of those tasks that fall inevitably with great frequency upon parents, of explaining something which it is difficult to portray to an infant mind. But finally he hit upon this definition, 'An insurance policy is something which makes sure we will have money and safety in our old age.'"

The little miss seemed lost in thought for a few moments, and then like a bolt from the blue she looked up and asked, "Daddy, have you any insurance policies for your soul?"

Daddy could not answer her just then, but later, in the quietness of his own room, he faced the awful fact that he had labored with the sweat of his brow and the productivity of his brain to gather up security for his three score years and ten, but had omitted to attend to the welfare of his immortal soul. And by giving his life and trust to the Lord Jesus Christ he took from the hands of the Saviour an eternal life insurance policy.

That is the message of the church. And the church's justification is that she is the agent of God for the distribution of His gifts and benefits; she is the institution which labors to bring men to God through Jesus Christ, who will be with them in this life, and usher them into the life to come.

FARM FORUM

By MAE HARMAN

Although many admirable attempts have been made to relieve the situation, the farm labor problem has by no means been solved. In many cases the situation is desperate, with no help in sight. In many more cases men, women and children are toiling long and hard at the risk of their health.

Nearly everyone now realizes that agriculture is, if not the most important, at least one of the major war industries. Yet no industry is faced with such a serious problem as the need for manpower on the farm. Farmers have made a splendid effort to step up production in order to meet the increased demand for foodstuffs, both for home consumption and for the armed forces. But already, because of the lack of help, many have had to cut down their efforts to a smaller scale. It is said that some dairy farmers near Montreal have had to sell out their whole dairy herds.

Roy F. Lick, manager of the Ontario Whole Milk Producers League, is quoted as saying, "With the present acute labor shortage, many farmers are giving up milking, because they have made repeated representations to Ottawa without getting any satisfaction. Production is falling off so rapidly that the threatened strike of milk producers will not likely be necessary because, due to farmers being unable to continue production, the matter has largely settled itself."

Some increases in production have been made because the whole family has pitched in and helped. On many farms women and children have taken on heavier work than they are able to do. If they carry on only for a temporary period no harm may be done, but if they have to carry a heavy load, season after season, they may cause permanent injury to their health. The average age of farm operators is 50 years. It is said that the older farm men are literally "living on borrowed strength."

One of the main reasons for the shortage of farm labor is the inability of the farmer to compete with other industries in the labor market. The farm income does not allow for the payment of high wages. Nor has the farm income risen enough to allow for increased wages. This problem has been greatly relieved in England by the paying of a subsidy to farm workers.

Many farmers have been able to carry on by the use of more machinery. But most machinery needs skilled labor to operate it. The advisability of going into debt to buy machinery is also questionable. In some districts co-operative ownership of machines has proved quite successful. More and more farmers are finding it worthwhile to share both equipment and work with their neighbors.

Although seasonal aid from students, industrial workers and professional men is very valuable, a more definite and long-term plan for the solution of the farm labor problem must be made soon.

You are reminded to listen to the Farm Forum broadcast over CBL at 8.30 p.m. on July 20, when Ethel Chapman, Toronto farm editor, will speak on the subject "Food Nutrition and Conservation."

Of People And Things

GUESTS

By Isabel Inglis Colville

If anyone expects me to write a dissertation on guests—their manners, habits and mode of procedure—then they may, with profit to themselves, turn their back on this article and read something else.

A few evenings ago, I was fighting a weed which creeps underground, and like a submarine, is a menace to everything in its path. Well, as I said before, I was trying to destroy the yellow perils that pop up everywhere to mock me, when the head of the house appeared and announced "you have an addition to your stock."

As we have no stock save one gentlemanly cat, this announcement was a bit overwhelming, so I asked, in a dignified manner, for enlightenment. "Come and see for yourself, unbelieving me," retorted my better half, so I, like the page of good King Wenceslaus, walked boldly in his footsteps to the barn door, then into a shadowy corner, where sat, solemnly, on a bag, a marmalade black mother cat, while round her frisked two exact replicas of herself and a silver grey beauty.

"Mrs. Blackie," said I severely, "WHAT does this mean? You see I recognized her as an occasional visitor."

"Well," explained the lady cat, eyeing me speculatively, "my nerves have been on edge since moving to the country. I've had a good home, but there are horses and cows and pigs, and I have lived in constant terror that SOMETHING might happen to my darlings."

"What will your mistress think?" I asked, as severely as I could, with one kitten climbing my back and the other staring me out of countenance with eyes like blueberries.

"She will understand that, with my nerves in a twitter, I had to do something," said she, boxing a kitten's ear as it attempted to pull her tail out. So I telephoned Mrs. Blackie's owner. Said she, "I've been hunting those kittens for hours, I'm so glad she hasn't dropped them down a well or some other idiotic thing."

"Leave them for the present," said I, "for she'd only bring them back if we took them home; she has a one-track mind."

So I have four guests. Their real owner provides sweet new milk. I provide solids and we both visit and converse with and try to educate these small fairy cats, for they are as dainty and almost as elusive as fairies. Blackie and I hold long conversations regarding the kittens' diet and upbringing.

She listens with a far-away look, to my remarks, says little, as she seems to have an attack of laryngitis, but gives an occasional mew or hoarse purr, to show she hears, so all goes well.

Then I have two other new guests—a bluebird and a baby chipmunk. The bluebird arrived one morning with a flock of sparrows and shared their morning meal, then he sat with the sun glinting on his shining feathers, and let me admire him. Now, he is here nearly every day—a thing of beauty. The chipmunk came to live in a hollow fence post, and I put his ration of bread and milk one morning with a flock of sparrows and shared their morning meal, then he sat with the sun glinting on his shining feathers, and let me admire him. Now, he is here nearly every day—a thing of beauty.

My robin family, orioles, goldfinches, and different kinds of sparrows are here at all hours, and their songs are a joy. Just now their voices are a bit hoarse trying to instruct their young, who come and sit at the feeding place, while their parents stuff crumbs down their over-ready throats.

So my guests are worth watching!

WOMEN DISCUSS DITTY BAGS FOR SAILORS

The Newmarket Women's Institute met on Thursday, June 25, at the home of Mrs. Fred Penrose, Second St.

The meeting opened with the singing of the opening ode, followed by the "collect." The roll-call—a war saving hint—was well responded to. The business part of the meeting took the form of an open discussion.

Mrs. N. L. Mathews gave an interesting demonstration on glove-making. She told the members where they could purchase the leather, thread and needles and how to make the leather pliable before cutting.

Mrs. Arthur Boyd gave a report on the district annual meeting. The members discussed the question of making ditty bags for sailors.

The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem and a social hour.

Search from attic to cellar for salvage material. Iron, rubber, cloth, paper, even bones (if you have a skeleton in your closet), are needed. But don't throw away useful articles even if they are no longer useful to you. Give them or sell them to someone else, and save that other person making a new purchase.

WESTERN GIRL IS WED AT BELHAVEN

The Free Methodist parsonage, Belhaven, decorated in pink and white amid hundreds of tulips, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Edith Kiehl, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kiehl from Saskatchewan, became the bride of Pte. Stiles Abraham McEwen, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McEwen, of Bollingbrook, Ontario.

Rev. A. B. Moffatt, brother-in-law of the groom, solemnized the marriage. The bride wore baby blue dress with white lace and white accessories. Her flowers were pink and white tulips and lily-of-the-valley tied with white tulle.

Mr. and Mrs. John James, of Toronto, were the attendants. Mrs. James, sister of the groom, was attired in a steel grey suit with matching accessories, and carried yellow and mauve tulips tied with pink tulle.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the parsonage. Mrs. Moffatt, sister of the groom, attired in a forest green ensemble, was hostess. Mrs. McEwen will reside in Toronto, and Pte. McEwen will return to his place of training in Quebec City.

Pictures of soldiers are appreciated for publication. Letters from soldiers are also welcome.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

The house of commons frequently reflects the news of the successes and the reverses of the United Nations' armed forces day by day. When the news is good, parliament is buoyant, and when it is bad, the house is correspondingly depressed. The very character of the debate often is determined by these factors. In the dark days of June of 1940, when France first tottered, then collapsed, parliament reached an all-time low so far as pessimism was concerned. The bad news of these recent days, however, has not achieved the same results, although the members naturally listened to the Libyan and Crimean news with deep concern. Deep-rooted in the minds of everyone is the feeling that with each reverse must come a corresponding strengthening of the will to win. Our all is at stake. Let us hope and pray that the dawn of a new and more encouraging day will follow this night of temporary reverses.

The Defence of Canada Regulations net has caught another parliamentarian in its meshes. How long he will remain so entangled, only a judge and jury can say. The speaker of the commons watches very carefully these days that the charge laid against Colonel George Drew isn't commented upon in parliament while it is before the courts. Nevertheless, several members of the opposition have succeeded in throwing the odd verbal hand grenade at the government benches before the speaker compelled them to seek cover. John Diefenbaker successfully managed to run the speaker's gauntlet by generalizing on the matter of prosecutions under the regulations, but he skillfully skirted around any direct reference to the Drew case.

Army Week has passed. Parliament Hill was treated to a fine display by our armed forces. Thousands of reservists and sun-tanned men on active service marched past the Peace Tower on Dominion Day, while the house, shy on members, (they were watching the spectacle outside), paid tribute through its leaders to this 75-year-old dominion of ours and to the men of Canada's army who, without much fanfare or public ity, are standing today between our people and a ruthless enemy that would destroy us. To the men of our army, let us fervently say "Good Luck!" God bless you.

You can always bank on George White, Mado's star ex-soldier and lawyer member of parliament, to start something in the commons. Captain White entered parliament in 1940, and has hit the headlines a good many times since he came to Ottawa. Outside the chamber, this tall, well-built veteran with iron-gray hair, is a quiet, unassuming type of gentleman. When he starts in on the department of national defence and the province of Quebec, he lights a veritable bonfire in the chamber. His statement the other day that no longer were the eight other provinces going to be dominated by the province of Quebec, and his call for an immediate showdown on the point, caused plenty of fireworks in the house.

Finance Minister Hsley told Opposition Leader Hanson in effect a short time ago that he was getting tired of hearing the opposition call for economies without mentioning particular items in the civil estimates which should be reduced. This week, George MeLean, M.P. for Simcoe East, making his second speech in six years, told the government where they could start with their economic pruning hooks. Two post offices, side by side in the basement of the parliament buildings, thirty messengers kept on and paid while the house is not in session. Duplication of staff in the reading rooms and in the quarters of the speaker and the clerk of the house. He left the impression that if he could save the government around the house of commons and senate alone about $150,000.

The budget this year called for the heaviest incidence of taxation in Canada's history. Curiously enough, it provided the shortest budget debate on record. Tuesday it commenced. Thursday it ended.

Breaking a silence which he has consistently maintained ever since he entered the commons in 1940, Dr. Cyrus MacMillan, Pictured above are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sanderson, whose marriage took place in the Christian-Congregational church, Newmarket, on June 3. The bride was formerly Miss Helen Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Adams of Newmarket. The young couple are residing in Newmarket.

M.P. for Charlottetown, entered the lists during the Mobilization Act debate. This distinguished McGill professor, former cabinet minister, and veteran of the last war, acquitted himself well. He was charitable towards his own government, but he minced no words when he dealt with total war and its implications. The doctor is chairman, this session, of the important committee dealing with veterans' land settlement, which has its report practically ready for submission to parliament.

GOD SAVE THE KING

Clear Telephone Lines for ALL-OUT PRODUCTION

From a report of an early Commando raid in Libya led by the son of Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, Keyes was killed in the action.

MEN'S lives depend on the speed of Canadian plants in putting grenades in their hands. These plants in turn depend on the managers and engineers and sub-contractors who direct production of the tens of thousands of hand and rifle grenades which Canada makes each month.

To keep in touch with each other... with suppliers... with officials... these men turn to the telephone a hundred times a day. Your unselfish use of the telephone will help them to get things done in a hurry. By observing "Wartime Telephone Tactics" and by reducing the number and length of social but unessential personal calls, you clear other interlocking lines for these messages that must get through.

WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS

- BE SURE you have the right number, consult the directory.
- SPEAK distinctly, directly into the mouth-piece.
- ANSWER promptly when the bell rings.
- BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
- USE OFF-PEAK hours for Long Distance calls: before 9.30 a.m., 1.2 p.m., 5-7 p.m., after 9 p.m.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Newmarket certainly put over a doozy of a sports program on the holiday and it is extremely doubtful if a more varied or better sporting program was ever put on at the old fair grounds.

Girls' softball proved a big attraction and the girls put on a display of skill that had the wisecracks blinking and for those who didn't know the fine points of the game the feminine pulchritude was quite a bit smarter than most expected. Catcher Anne Campbell of the big store team won quite a few admirers with her dark tresses and we heard more than one lad commenting about Marj. McDonald, the blonde in left field, for the same team. The latter is married, boys, and also, we believe, the former, but on the latter part we're not quite definite. The rest of the girls weren't far behind for looks either.

With no rubber on the mound, the pitchers found the going a bit tough but Ruth Elson, the hefty hurler of the Steelers and "Poker-face," otherwise known as Elsie Hayward, the short tosser for the store team, both were plenty good.

Too bad there was no screen, for passed balls broke up the ball game.

Marj. McCannan, playing before a home-town crowd, was at third base in place of her usual outfield berth and she was a bit jittery at the start. At bat, however, she got "the usual two hits" and her present batting average of .357 finds her in fifth spot in the Sunnyside loop.

Harry ("Whattaman") Sniderman, president of the C.A.S.A. and former ace hurler, was behind the plate and gave a fine display. Sniderman is readying the old arm for a few charity appearances this summer. He was a strong admirer of the Camp's ball team and figured they would fit in well in his league. Softball was in for a big year all over, he opined, despite the gas rationing. In most centres town league or industrial had replaced inter-town competition but there would be a big list of centres ripe for competition after the war. When the play-offs came, by one means or other, even if by hitchhiking, the softballers would keep their playing dates in his day. Sniderman was the best in Canada on the mound and could pick the old apple too.

Larry O'Connor has done a fine job as track coach at Newmarket in his short stay there and it is no mean feat to draw with the Toronto police at track and field. At that if Doug. Pyzer of the R.C.A.F. had not taken the 100 yards, the Camp would have won out. O'Connor is the new president of the newly formed Spikes club, an organization set up across Canada to foster track and field sports in all centres, including the sticks. The membership is confined to amateurs who have been students at any university in Canada and who have either competed in or contributed to intercollegiate track and field. The name is the one discarded at the time the famous London Achilles club, composed of Oxford and Cambridge grads, was formed. The war will curtail their activities but come peace Canada will be ready for all British Empire games. One of O'Connor's big aces is "The Deacon," a tall colored lad by the name of Al. Plummer who can really pick them up and lay them down. Lieut. Dave Dickie, the former Balm Beach half-back, is a shot-putter de luxe, tho' we judge he's new at the game.

The real story of the Camp's trip to Ottawa and the army softball competitions was given us in

RAVENSHOE

By decision of the congregation of Ravenshoe United Church, taken before the service on Sunday, the service for July and August will be in the morning at quarter to ten o'clock. Not for some years has service in the United Church been as early as this, but the choice was overwhelmingly in favor of the morning hour as against the afternoon hour.

Now that everyone is using daylight saving time, the old plan of having summer service at noon is no longer feasible.

Last Sunday's service was for Dominion day, with Rev. Gordon Gapp preaching from a text in Psalm 124: "In the name of the Lord we will set up our banners."

Ravenshoe Sunday-school picnic will be at Jackson's Point on Thursday, July 16.

was gowned in duchess satin with sweetheart neckline, long

She wore a halo of tulle and finger-tip carried a cascade of red roses and baby's breath. Her only ornament was a silver locket, the gift of the groom.
Miss Norine Ayers was bridesmaid wearing Queen's blue sheer

POLICE COURT

INDIAN FINED $10 FOR HAVING CASE OF BEER

"Do you know that by our law you are not supposed to have any form of liquor?" Magistrate W. N. Robinson in Newmarket police court on Tuesday questioned James Blackbird, an Indian living in Georgina township, who pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

According to the evidence of County Constable William Hill, he and County Constable Ronald Watt were seated in their car, which they had parked in Mossington Park, at 10.40 p.m. on June 26, when they noticed the defendant walking towards them with a case of beer under his arm.

"I asked him where he got the beer and he said that a man in the park gave it to him," stated the officer. Constable Hill went on to say that Mr. Blackbird was from the Indian Reservation and was not supposed to have liquor.

"He hadn't been drinking at the time," questioned Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"No," replied the witness.

"This is not just a case like that of having liquor in a car," observed the crown. "This man had no right to have liquor at all."

Asked by his worship if he would like to give his side of the story, Mr. Blackbird replied that he had nothing to say.

"There is no evidence as to who gave you the beer," commented Magistrate Robinson. "I am fining you $10 and costs, which is the very least you can be fined under the act."

Finding William Pearce, Toronto, guilty of careless driving in East Willowbury, Magistrate Robinson fined him the minimum penalty of $5 and costs or ten days. The defendant pleaded not guilty.

Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson testified that he saw the defendant passing another car on the curve of a hill near Holland Landing. The officer stated that Mr. Pearce, who had crossed over the white line marking the centre of the road, was not exceeding the speed limit at the time.

"There isn't a clear view ahead on these curves," stated the constable.

In his defence Mr. Pearce stated that he had a clear view ahead at the time.

"Don't you see signs all over the highways saying that you are not to pass on the hills?" asked his worship.

"I don't see why I should have been charged," stated the defendant.

"Nobody ever does," interrupted Magistrate Robinson.

Five Newmarket youths, jointly charged with breaking and entering the R.S.A. bugle band hall, Newmarket, on March 8 and stealing a sum of money, were remanded for a week. The boys, who have been in custody, were allowed bail of $500.

Magistrate Robinson fined three motorists $10 and costs for having inefficient brakes on their cars. They were: D. R. Howard, Sutton, Alma Williamson, Mount Albert, and Albert Watson, Ravenshoe.

In each case County Constable Ronald Watt tested the brakes.

For driving 60 miles an hour on Yonge St. Joseph Kenwell, Toronto, was fined $25 and costs.

A 16-year-old Newmarket youth was placed on six months' probation when he pleaded guilty to stealing $12 from the till at Fred. Thompson's garage, Newmarket, on June 22.

On the evening of June 22 last I received a telephone call regarding the theft of $12 from Thompson's garage," testified Chief Constable James Sloss. "The money had been taken from a drawer. As a result of investigation I questioned the accused and at first he denied taking it. The officer went on to say that he searched the youth and found some bills in his billfold."

"I told the accused to see me the following Tuesday night," continued Mr. Sloss. "He came in. Before Constable Kenneth Mount, I cautioned him in the usual manner and he admitted the theft."

"Has restitution been made?" asked the crown.

"Yes," replied the witness. "He had been working on a farm and has no previous record."

"We don't want this sort of thing going on," advised the crown. "But I think that under the circumstances, as he is working on a farm and that restitution has been made, he should be put on probation."

"Owing to the fact that you have not been in trouble before, and largely due to the fact that you are working on a farm and farm help is badly needed, I am going to ask that you pay costs of court and place you on probation for six months," his worship told the youth. "If you fail to pay costs of the prosecution you go to jail for 30 days."

INDUSTRIES PUT UP FINE BALL FIELD FENCE

In response to many inquiries, President George Byers of the Newmarket Hardball League, stated this week that the new fence along the first-base line at the ball park was made possible through the combined generosity of the Davis Leather Co. and the Office Specialty Co., with the co-operation of the public school board. Andrew J. Davis and Gordon L. Manning of the two firms, went to a great deal of trouble and expense in order to help the league in this way.
